Indeed the Raiganj College is as like Presidency College of North Bengal for the scholasticism. So many scholars passed out from this institution and served the country and abroad in various fields. The NAAC team analysed and assessed the college and has given grade B+ level (77.35) in December 2003. The college upgraded to a University (State University) i.e. Raiganj University in 21st January 2015. Professor Anil Bhumali joined this University as the first Vice-Chancellor of Raiganj University on 16.04.2015. The Raiganj University has started the journey with 10 P.G. courses and Research Studies with U.G. Courses also.*

1. Introduction

The college holds so many historical importance for the development and spread of the Higher Education in the North Bengal as well as the students from the other States and overseas also. Uttar Dinajpur is a backward District in every respect and it is the only District that has no women's college among other nineteen Districts of West Bengal and that's why students mostly depends on Raiganj University to get higher education since 1948. The main purpose of this paper is to reveal its history of foundation, gradually up gradation and qualitative education.

II. Historical Background: Ancient Times

Geographical position of Raiganj: As per “The Gazetteer of Bengal and North East India”-by B.C.Allen; E.A.Gait; C.G.H.Allen; H.F.Howard [1] Raiganj situated in twenty five degree thirty seven minute north and eighty eight degree nine minute east, on the Kulik river. Raiganj is an important trade centre, exporting a large quantity of jute from the historic time.

[2]The district of West Dinajpur comprises an area which in ancient times a part of the kingdom of Pundravardhana. Pundravardhana was the country of the Pundras. Some curious legends are mentioned about the origin of the Pundras in the Mahabharata, the Matsya and Vayu Puranas and the Aitareya Brahmana. According to the Mahabharatas and the Matsya and Vayu Puranas, the sage Dirghatamas had five sons by queen Sudeshna, the wife of king Bali, and these five sons named Anga, Vanga, Kalinga, Pundra and Sumha. The Pundras are the descendants of this Pundra. According to the Aitareya Brahmana, Pundras are the descendants of the sons of Visvamitra, who had been cursed by him. The Sabhaparvan of the Mahabharata on the other hand refers to the Vangas and Pundras as well-born Kshatriyas. The Karatoya has been mentioned as a sacred river in the Tirtha-yatra section of the Mahabharata. Karna is said to have vanquished the Pindras. Krishna also is said to have defeated the Pundras. Patanjali in his Mahabhashya makes a reference to Pundras. It is mentioned in the Ramayana that search parties that were sent to the east in quest of Sita, were asked to visit the land of the Pundras.

According to the Brihatkathakosa of Harisena, Bhadrabahu, the Jaina guru of Chandragupta Maurya, was a son of a Brahmin of Kotivarsha in Pundravardhana. The Jaina Kalpasutra is said to have been compiled by Bhadrabahu, and this led to the foundation of a number of schools having a general affiliation to the main church. According to this tradition, Godasa, a disciple of Bhadrabahu, was responsible for the foundation of a school called Godasa-gana which in course of time had four shakhas, three of which were called Tamraliptika (Modern Tamluk), Kotivarsa and Pundravardhaniya. This Kitovarsa has been identified with Devkot which again has been identified with Bangarh in police station Gangarampur. A curious legend is associated with Bangarh. It appears that Bali Raja reigned over this part of the country. He was a devotee of Shiva. His son was Ban Raja.

In the period from 3rd century B.C. to 3rd century A.D. Buddhism and Jainism spread in Pundravardhana. Two believers of Buddhism a lady named Dharmadatta and a gentleman named Rishinandan, both of Pundravardhana, gave contributions towards the construction of the railing and gate of the famous Sanchi Stupa of Bhupal. Not only that the Mahasthangarh Fragmentary stone plaque Inscription and Bangarh excavation in 1937-41 refers that this region developed in every concerns.

So, in ancient times the district was a part of the country of Pundravardhana. During the reign of Chandragupta Maurya, Pundravardhana was noted as a seat of study in Jaina religious doctrines. Bhadrabahu was born in Devkot in Pundravardhana. After Bhadrabahu's death different sets of doctrines grew up within the Jaina religion and two of these schools of thought within the Jaina religion came to be known as the Kotivarshiya School and the Pundravardhaniya school. Pundravardhana was a “Bhukti” of the Gupta Empire. In fact, at the time of Gupta reign that Sanskrit was understood by the educated. Coming down to the reign of Pala

Emperor's, we found Pundravardhana occupying a conspicuous place in spreading the Buddhist religion. According to Sandhakaranandi, the court poet of Ramapala described Sonitpura or Devkot as a city full of learning having been confined to Brahmanas mostly in those days, and that also in religious instruction, the presence of so many temples in that city indicates its character as a seat of learning just as Varanasi. The Badal Pillar Inscription of Devapala and the Bangarh Copper-plate Inscription of Mahipala –I records gifts gives us about learning. Study of Hindu religious literature in Sanskrit continued under the Senas.

III. Mediaeval Times

Muhammad Bakhtyar Khalji conquered North Bengal immediately after his victory over Lakshnasena at Nadia. He established a military outpost at Devkot and has established madrasas and makhtabs in conquered area. Although Persian had been adopted as the official language, the Muslim sultan of Bengal encouraged the growth of Bengali literature. By the 14th century A.D. Mangalakavyas began to be composed in Bengali and one of the poets, Jagat Jiban Ghosal, wrote such a poem in the 17th century, was born in the district of Dinajpur.

IV. Modern Times

The district of West Dinajpur came into existence in August, 1947, with the partition of Bengal. The province of Bengal came to be divided into two parts in accordance with this partition. In accordance with the Award of Sir Cryil Radcliffe the dividing line passed through the district of Dinajpur, the portion lying to the West of the line being named West Dinajpur. (Gazetteer of india: West Bengal, West Dinajpur: by J.C.Sengupta).

[3] "Gleanings in science and the Journal of the Asiatic society, 1833, ["Geographical, Statistical, and Historical Description of the District, or Zila, of Dinajpur, in the province, or Soubah of Bengal" by DR. Francis Buchanan (Hamilton)] described that there were six high schools in the district in 1947, immediately after it came into being. Of these, the Balurghat High School was affiliated to Calcutta University in 1910. The Raiganj Coronation High School (The mother of the Raiganj College) was affiliated to Calcutta University in 1917, the Harirampur A.S.D.M. High School and the Kaliaganj P.S. High School in 1947. There were also 31 middle schools teaching up to Class VI, 51 primary schools, 01 tol and 11 junior madrasas. There was no high school for girls in the district, nor was there any training institution. Of the 31 middle schools only two were for girls, one of which was located at Balurghat and the other at Raiganj. The state of higher education the only College in the undivided district of Dinajpur was situated in that part of the District which has become a part of East Pakistan, two new Colleges had to be established, one at Balurghat and the other at Raiganj for providing facilities for higher education to the young men of the district.

V. Brain Child Of The Raiganj College

In the time of the painful partition of India there are so many people came over to the border district erstwhile West Dinajpur and Raiganj provided many of them with food and shelter. To these uprooted people education of their children was an essential element for the wheel of fortune on which they turn. At this juncture those great personalities, educationists and social thinkers of this town who felt the necessity of building a college for higher education in this backward region in the darkest hour of the history of our nation for imparting education to the children of those uprooted families, coming from East Pakistan, and to those, living and partly living in this poverty-stricken town.

In this regards Late Sukumar Guha and Late Nirmal Chandra Ghosh played a leading role. By the effort of above mentioned famous persons a meeting was convened among the conscious local eminent and interested persons to establish a college for higher education. Those persons were signed on that meeting was 1. Banamali Das. 2. Durgapada Sarkar 3. Brajendralal Banerjee. 4. Dr. Jagadish Chandra Sen. 5. Sasindra Chandra Dey (Former H.M. of Raiganj Coronation High School National Awarded by the President of India) 6. Kshirod Chandra Saha. 7. Rabindra Nath Bhowmik. 8. Kumaresh Chandra Roy. 9. Kshitish Chandra Mitra. 10. Rohini Mohan Nag. 11. Kalyan kumar Goswami. 12. Kishan Lal Ghosh. 13. Hajarilal Agarwala. 14. Naharmal Kalyani. 15. Md. Golam Hamidur Rahaman. 16. Sasadhar Bhowmik. 17. Shyamaprasad Barman. 18. Jitendram Bakshi. 19. Kumaresh Chandra Bhowmik. 20. Mohit Ranjan Sikder. 22. Jogendra Kumar Roy. 23. Ramendra Nath Dutta. 24. Bijoysankar Choudhury. 25. Md. Afuj Ali. 26. Manager of the Bahin Court of orders and others. All the members of that meeting unanimously decided to establish a college and appealed to the peoples to donate land and money for this purpose. In 1948 they appealed to the Calcutta University for affiliation.

Famous social worker and political person Nisith Nath Kundu have been brought out the affiliation of Raiganj College from Calcutta University in 1948.

So far as higher education is concerned, the only college in the undivided district of Dinajpur was situated in that part of the district which has become a part of East Pakistan, two new College had to be established, one at Balurghat and other at Raiganj providing facilities for higher education to the young men of the district. The Balurghat College was opened in September, 1948 as an Intermediate Arts College, and was given affiliation for the I. Sc. Course in 1950. It then became affiliated up to the B.A. and B.Sc. standard of Calcutta University. THE RAIGANJ COLLEGE was opened in August, 1948 and received affiliation from Calcutta University for teaching up to the I.A. Examination in Arts only from 1948-49. At present, it is affiliated for both the I.Sc. And B.A. standard. The only difficulty in regard to the successful functioning of these two colleges has been the persistent dearth of qualified lecturers and professors who seem to be unwilling to serve in the district of West Dinajpur. Balurghat College comes under the “sponsored colleges” scheme of the Government, while Raiganj College gets grants from the Government. The professors and lecturers are paid salaries prescribed by the University and the Government, and fees are realised from students at rates approved by the Government. Recently with the establishment of the University of North Bengal, both the colleges have become affiliated to it.

At this critical juncture, the University of North Bengal, took over the college in 1968 to turn it into a University College for its all round development. The generosity of the then Vice Chancellor of the University of North Bengal and famous engineer professor A.C.Roy and the members of the NBU authority for shaping the college into a University College. The then senate member Anandamoy Bhattacharya, later, who became Chief Judge of the Calcutta High Court, was present on that historical moment. Besides this famous educationist and the then M.P. 5. Statement Of Objects And Reasons

It is the objective of the State Government to expand higher education infrastructure in the state. Uttar Dinajpur district has no University till date. As per 2011 Census, the district of Uttar Dinajpur has the lowest literacy rate of 60.13%. The District has substantial Scheduled Caste, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes populations which suffer the lack of opportunity to pursue higher education. The North Bengal University and the newly established the Gour Banga University are found inadequate to cater to the need of the aspiring students of Uttar Dinajpur due to the distance factor. Hence, with a view to achieving a uniform growth in the field of higher education throughout the state, it has been decided that a new University should be established at Raiganj on the land and properties of the existing Raiganj College (University College).

The Raiganj College is the first University College in North Bengal under the North Bengal University. The College is running some Post-graduate Course along with regular undergraduate courses since long. The college is also equipped with sufficient land and other infrastructure for starting a University.

Following shall, inter alia, be the objectives of the University -

To encourage and provide for instruction, teaching training and research in such branches of learning and course of study as it may think fit, and generally to promote the advancement and dissemination of knowledge and learning, and the extension of higher education with special emphasis on the study of indigenous as well as culture and rural development; To establish, maintain and manage colleges, libraries, laboratories, museums and such other institutions or centres for study and research as it may deem necessary;

And for such other purposes as may be necessary for dissemination and advancement of higher education. In view of these above, it has been decided that the existing Raiganj College (University College) may be converted into a new University by utilizing land and assets, including the employees of Raiganj College (University College).

The Bill has been framed with the above objectives and views.

KOLKATA,
The 30th October, 2014.

Conclusion

The Raiganj University has been established by an Act No. XXVI of 2014 of state Legislature of West Bengal as a state University, Notification No. 85-L dated 21st January 2015 and is empowered to award degrees as per the UGC Act 1956. The Raiganj University will help to increase and to spare higher education to the people of the district of Uttar Dinajpur and abroad undoubtedly. I hope The Government of West Bengal, the Government of India and other wings of the educational and financial section will assist to develop whole heartedly to the newly established Raiganj University.
